SENATOR SEWARD, IN REPLY TO MR. SE-WARD'S BUFFALO SPEECH .- THE PURPOSE OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY CONSIDERED. To Hon. William H. Seward, a Senator in Congress from the State of New York:

Sir: A friend has put into my hands the containing a speech delivered by you at Buffalo a few days before. I hardly know whether you designed it as a peculiar distinction to me, or as a pungent reflection or Mr. Sumner, that you should have devoted acteristic reasons, the implied taunt for his prudent disdain towards one whom you ed wisdom in our boyhood, at the feet of that great teacher, Eliphalet Nott. Sir, we the struggle of nearly forty eintervening years has brought us both, be more distinctly expressed, than by saying that we stand face to face, you to trifle recklessly, from the high places of the earth, with the peace, the union, and the glory of that country which has honored you so highly; piness of that same country, at whose hands I never asked, never desired, a single token to distinguish me from the humblest of her sons. We have both deliberately chosen our career. I shall not shrink from any duty which mine may impose. The ostentatious titles with which you have heralded your speech are not entitled to remark, except as they are thoroughly characteristic, and except as they attempt to embody the essence of your thought, sistent with what you are pleased to call legend of your friends, the old Jacobinswas briefer, more intense, and less turgid Rhetoric has its decencies as well as statesto violate them all.

Last comes one who, with seeming meekness, asks us to consider whether it is wise to jeopard the safety and happiness of twenty-five millions of white men in a vain effort to mitigate the sufferings of only three millions of negroes. Humane, cautious, pater-nal, conscientious man! I might join issue, and ask where, in the ethics either of Government or Christianity, you find authority to hold three millions of men in bondage, to promote the welfare, or even to secure the safety of twenty-five millions of other men? But that argument belongs to the Abolitionists of slave-ry, who do not reckon me in their number, and whose objects in this election are far more comprehensive than those of the Republican Party, which I defend. I leave the rights and the interests of the slaves in the States to their own care and that of their advocates; I simply ask whether the safety and the interests of twenty-five millions of free non-slaveholding white men ought to be sacrificed or put in jeopardy for the convenience or safety of three hundred and fifty thousand slaveholders? I hear no answer. I will deal with you, Mr. Seward, more truly than you have dealt with me, or even with your own party. So dealing, I demand of you, in the name of our common country, was not the question which you say I put to the North, and which you atby Simon Kenton, in Mason county, near nothing but desperate fanaticism on your and apples. You are no proud, high-born beauty. Heroine of old romance;— Never Knightly gallant for you Crossed a sword or broke a lance: Never crowd of anxious suitors, For your favor bent the knee; You're no Queen of Hearts, my Bessie. Sovereign Queen of only me

You are no strong-minded woman, Ink-stained to the finger-tips; Never word of Greek or Latin, Passed those little rosylips; Never call from Heaven sent you Don Quixote like to roam;
This your only mission, Bessie,
To make glad one heart and home.

You have none of all the graces Novel heroes most affect; Your's is not the face or figure Charles Augustus would select; You are only simple Bessie, Gentle, trusting, loving wife: Yet your coming was the coming Of the angel of my life.

Passed beyond the open door:
Care and evil vanished, conquered
By the love-light in your eye;
Truer life and love has won me,
Tho' I cannot tell you why. Why do you, my darling Bessie, Love the sunshine, love the flowers! Love the quiet and the stillness Of this little home of ours?

Would you analyze all pleasure As the urchin breaks his toy? While you learn the secret of it, You will lose the subtle joy. Why I love you? Why I love you? Never ask the question more:

I can only answer simply As I answered you before,
That I love you, dearest Bessie,
Love you only, love you well;
But the reason why I love you,
That is more than I can tell.

Canon, a couple of bottles, each of which would hold over a quart, and in one of chinery were in possession of A. H. Buckingham, who is in the employ of Mr. Canon. Mr. B. says the machinery was built within their covering about thirty-five years ago, by a person then resident of New York State, but now deceased. He did it on a wager of $2,000, which he won in less than three years, which was the time allowed for the work. It has been suggested that the glass must have been blown over the machinery; but it is also stated that such a thing would be impossible with such kind of bottles. They are filled full with the machinery, which is braced and pinned, and otherwise made strong. There are cog wheels. The neck of each bottle is filled with a plug, which is keyed close up to the neck. The mystery of getting in the key, when there is hardly room between the plug all adapted to the growth of hemp, and 150 finely and neck of the bottle to get in a tool as large as a shingle nail, is as great as any other wonder about the ingenious affair. These curiosities may be seen by any body, for a few days, without any charge

FEMALE HEALTH AND EDUCATION .- The following paragraphs are extracted from Miss Beecher's new work :

The work that Providence has appointed absurd when you have a good farm, well tic life, is just that which, if properly apportioned, is fitted to her peculiar organization. If all the female members of a fami-, ly divided all the labors of the cook, the nurse, the laundress, and the seamstress, it would exercise every muscle in the body, and at the same time interest and exercise the mind. Then the remaining time could. be safely given to intellectual, social and benevolent pursuits and enjoyments. But no such division is made. One portion of the women have all the exercise of the nerves of motion, and another have all deficieent and deformed, either intellectually or physically, or both. And as American women every year become more and nervous, sickly and miserable, while they are bringing into existence feeble, delicated Cynthian Logan's heirs In Equity. are bringing into existence feeble, delicate
